IFRS 3 Business Combinations

(This fact sheet is based on the standard as at 1 January 2010.)

Important note:
This fact sheet is based on the requirements of the International Financial Reporting Standards (IFRSs). In some jurisdictions, the IFRSs are adopted in their entirety, in other jurisdictions the individual IFRSs are amended. In some jurisdictions the requirements of a particular IFRS may not have been adopted. Consequently, users of the fact sheet in various jurisdictions should ascertain for themselves the relevance of the fact sheet to their particular jurisdiction. The application date included below is the effective date of the most recent changes made to the standard.

IASB application date (non-jurisdiction specific)
IFRS 3 is applicable for annual reporting periods commencing on or after 1 July 2009.

OBJECTIVE
The objective of IFRS 3 is to improve the relevance, reliability and comparability of the information that a reporting entity provides in its financial statements about a business combination and its effects. To accomplish that, IFRS 3 establishes principles and requirements for how the acquirer:

a. Recognises and measures in its financial statements the identifiable assets acquired, the liabilities assumed and any non-controlling interest in the acquiree

b. Recognises and measures the goodwill acquired in the business combination or a gain from a bargain purchase;

c. Determines what information to disclose to enable users of the financial statements to evaluate the nature and financial effects of the business combination.

SCOPE
IFRS 3 applies to a transaction or other event that meets the definition of a business combination.

IFRS 3 does not apply to:

- the formation of a joint venture
- the acquisition of an asset or a group of assets that does not constitute a business
- a combination of entities or businesses under common control.

PRESCRIBED ACCOUNTING TREATMENT

Identifying a business combination
Entities determine whether a transaction or other event is a business combination by applying the definition in IFRS 3 which requires that the assets acquired and the liabilities assumed constitute a business.

If the assets acquired are not a business, the reporting entity accounts for the transaction or other event as an asset acquisition.

Recognition and measurement
Each business combination should be accounted for by using the acquisition method which involves:

a. identifying the acquirer

b. determining the acquisition date
c. recognising and measuring the identifiable assets acquired, the liabilities assumed and any non-controlling interest in the acquiree

d. recognising and measuring goodwill or a gain from a bargain purchase.

Identifying the acquirer

One of the combining entities is identified as the acquirer for each business combination.

The guidance in IAS 27 is used to identify the acquirer – the entity that obtains control of the acquiree.

Instances where identification of the acquirer is not straightforward include:

- reverse acquisitions involving one entity (usually a listed entity) purchasing the ownership interests in another (unlisted) entity with the listed company’s equity as purchase consideration. Legally, the first entity would be the acquirer. However under IFRS 3 the second entity is the acquirer if it has the power, by virtue of its shareholding in the listed company, to govern the financial and operating policies of the legal parent so as to obtain benefits from its activities. In this case, the second entity is usually the larger entity.

- creation of a new entity to issue equity to effect the business combination: one of the existing combining entities must be identified as the acquirer rather than the new entity.

- combination of more than two entities where one of the combining entities must be identified as the acquirer.

Determining the acquisition date

The acquirer identifies the acquisition date which is the date on which it obtains control of the acquirer.

Recognising and measuring the identifiable assets acquired, the liabilities assumed and any non-controlling interest in the acquiree

As of acquisition date, the acquirer recognises, separately from goodwill, the identifiable assets acquired, the liabilities assumed and any non-controlling interest in the acquiree.

To qualify for recognition as part of applying the acquisition method, the identifiable assets acquired and liabilities assumed must:

- meet the definitions of assets and liabilities in the Framework for the Preparation and Presentation of Financial Statements at the acquisition date.
- be part of what the acquirer and acquiree (or its former owners) exchanged in the business combination transaction rather than as the result of separate transactions.

The identifiable assets acquired and the liabilities assumed are measured at their acquisition-date fair values.

There are some exceptions to the recognition and measurement principles as noted below:

- contingent liabilities (recognition)
- income taxes (recognition and measurement)
- employee benefits (recognition and measurement)
- indemnification assets (recognition and measurement)
- reacquired rights (measurement)
- share-based payment awards (measurement)
- assets held for sale (measurement).

Recognising and measuring goodwill or a gain from a bargain purchase

Goodwill is recognised as at the acquisition date and is measured at the excess of (a) over (b) where:

a) is the aggregate of:

i. the consideration transferred, measured in accordance with IFRS 3, which generally requires acquisition-date fair value

ii. the amount of any non-controlling interest in the acquiree measured in accordance with IFRS 3

iii. in a business combination achieved in stages, the acquisition-date fair value of the acquirer’s previously held equity interest in the acquiree.

b) the net of the acquisition-date amounts of the identifiable assets acquired and the liabilities assumed measured in accordance with IFRS 3.
Where an acquirer makes a bargain purchase, where the consideration is less than the net assets acquired; the acquirer reassesses the fair values of assets and liabilities acquired. If it is still a bargain purchase then the excess is recognised immediately in profit or loss on the acquisition date.

Consideration transferred

The consideration transferred in a business combination is measured at fair value, which is the sum of the acquisition date fair values of the:

- assets transferred by the acquirer
- the liabilities incurred by the acquirer to former owners of the acquiree
- the equity interests issued by the acquiree and
- contingent consideration.

Non-standard business combinations

Further guidance is provided in IFRS 3 on the following types of business combinations:

- business combination achieved in stages; and
- business combination achieved without the transfer of consideration.

Measurement period

Where an acquirer has been unable to complete the initial accounting for a business combination by the end of the reporting period in which the combination occurred – provisional accounting may be used.

During this measurement period, the acquirer retrospectively adjusts the provisional amounts recognised at the acquisition date to reflect new information obtained about facts and circumstances that existed as of the acquisition date and, if known, would have affected the measurement of the amounts recognised as of that date.

The measurement period ends as soon as the acquirer receives the information it was seeking about facts and circumstances that existed as of the acquisition date or learns that more information is not obtainable.

The measurement period does not exceed one year from the acquisition date.

Any adjustments after the measurement period are accounted for in accordance with IAS 8.

Acquisition costs

Acquisition costs are recorded as expenses in the periods in which the costs are incurred and the services are received, except for costs to issue debt or equity securities.

Costs to be expensed include:

- finder’s fees
- legal fees
- valuation fees
- general administrative costs.
